It is a program created to help those who are caught in the powerful grip of addiction and substance abuse – but would like to break free – with the opportunity to be connected to a program to assist them with overcoming their addiction.

Who operates the program?

The program was created by the Burlington County Prosecutor's Office, and is operated in conjunction with Garden State Treatment Center, Oaks Integrated Care, Solstice Counseling and Wellness Center, and the following police departments:

Is anyone eligible? What about insurance?

Anyone who asks for assistance will be helped, regardless of residency. Insurance is not necessary in order to receive assistance through the program.

What if I have drugs I want to turn in?

Those who come in for help can bring drugs and drug paraphernalia to surrender to police without being charged with possession.

Are other services available?

Yes, the treatment providers understand that loved ones such as family members or friends also need support during this difficult time. They will be there to listen, help understand the process and provide support resources.
